Prayer for toxic people

In the ideal world, we never meet many people who intend to injure us. Unfortunately we live in a fallen world full of broken people, and pain and pain are destined to come to each of us. The sin is abundant, and therefore, toxic and abusive relations are formed. Christians are not immune to find themselves trapped in these situations. Occasionally, we have wrapped in these unhealthy relationships and behavior cycles. A healthy relationship is the one in which there is a unit of objectives, purpose, values and beliefs. The toxic relations, however, are often unilateral and sometimes abusive. Toxic relationships can happen between friends, family, collaborators and romantic relationships. The Word of God tells us that, "every envy and the search for self, confusion and every evil thing are there (James 3:16). These types of relationships are not sent by God. Because they bring negativity and pain to those in it. When we are toxic, everyone is guilty about a certain level of being abusive or toxic to others at some point. As humans, we will not be able to live at the standards of God. The potential for Damage has to do with sin and our innate bent towards selfishness (Romans 3:23; Jeremiah 17: 9). Those who accepted the need of a Savior recognize that he only loves himself, Jesus Christ, can cancel Our selfishness, transforming it into true love (Romans 8:10). We have responsibility for taking care and loving others - not cause damage (John 13:34; Exodus 22:22; Isaiah 10: 2; 1 SALONIER 4: 6). The Christians who cause damage to others understand that they must regret themselves for their mistakes and excuses for their actions. When we look deep into the mirror, we can understand that we are those who have some unhealthy trends that God wants to change. We should stop wasting time in toxic life models, because it is better in store for us. When others are toxic, God does not want it to stay when we are in a toxic relationship. Why spend your time, effort and resources looking for acceptance by people who are so surrounded by yourself that can't accommodate someone else in their lives? Why spend your spiritual gifts about the people who aren't appreciating the one who lives inside you? If a person in your life is toxic for your mental, spiritual or physical health, often the most wise decision is to put a certain distance between you and them. The biggest desire of God is to put us free, and sometimes this means addressing the person and say "satisfying, nothing more ... ease. In Galatians 4: 7-10, the apostle Paul warns the church for listening Of someone who was spreading lies "
