Read the following passage, and then answer the inference questions on the following pag A Balloon For Mom "I'll be right back," Tyler told his dad as he jumped out of the car. When he entered the card store, he saw a long line of people waiting to check out. He groaned as he joined the end of the line. Everyone else must have had the same gift idea for their mom. Tyler thought to himself As he waited in line, he scanned his choices hanging on the wall. Flattened foil balloons for nearly every occasion lined the wall behind the cash register. He skipped over the birthday and get-well balloons, and finally found the "mom" section. He selected a teacup-shaped balloon that said "You are a tea-rific mom!" When Tyler reached the cash register, there was a long line of customers behind him. The weary clerk asked Tyler, "What can I get for you?" "Balloon number 321," Tyler answered confidently While the clerk inflated the balloon with helium and tied a string to the bottom, Tyler Nattened the four dollar bills that he had crammed into his pocket on the counter. As she handed the balloon to Tyler, the clerk said, "Four dollars and twenty-eight cents, Tyler's heart skipped a beat, and for a moment, he felt like a ball had hit him square in the stomach. "But the sign says four dollars," he stammered, as he reached inside his pockets, frantically hoping some coins would magically appear. "Didn't you read the words here at the bottom of the sign?" Tyler felt his cheeks grow warm. He didn't have to look at the words at the bottom of the sign to know what he had forgotten to add when he had incorrectly assumed the cost was four dollars. He couldn't believe he made such a silly mistake. Although he didn't turn to look, he knew everyone in line was staring at him. "No," he whispered. He looked down as his eyes filled with tears. "I don't have enough money to pay for this Tyler stepped away from the counter when an older woman who was standing behind him came to his rescue. "I have some change, young man," she said as she handed him a quarter and a Tyler breathed a sigh of relief. "Thank you!"
