RECENT VIEWS SUPPORT THAT CASTE SYSTEM DID NOT ORIGINATE FROM VEDIC VARNA

BY P. PRYADAKSHI

PDF

Earlier authors like A. L. Basham and M. N. Srinivasan indicated that caste is something entirely created from 19th century. Later this view became acceptable and even British Raj also subscribed to this view of the caste system (Thapar, 2002, 2004, 2005).

DNA studies have largely supported that the all the Indian castes share same DNA and their CRNs vary from because of geographical isolation rather than because of caste levels.

As Prof. Basham had noted that the current caste are no more than one thousand years old, and have nothing to do with Vedic (pre 1000). However, some attempts to spread falsehood about Brahmins is never ending.

Most recently one article (Shastri et al 2007) made a false comment about Hindu Varna System, that it subscribes to the highly diverse and classified caste system. However, numerous authorities have made it clear that caste has nothing to do with Varna. It is imperative that wrong notions about Hindu Varna system is should be corrected. Hence to expose the truth, we quoted below three authorities of the subject (ie Prof. A. L. Basham, 1987; Prof. M. N. Srinivasan, 1982; and Prof. Romila Thapar, 2002) and the recent wrong allegation about origin of caste that coming by an European scientist.

The existence of a common brotherhood in the human family, and the practice of a common sympathy and succour, have by the majority of men been grievously overlooked. Tyranny and mischief and cruelty have been most extensively the consequence of antisocial presumption and pretension. The constant experience of the general observer of human nature has been not unlike that of the Hebrew sage, Agur, the son of Jakeh :

There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes,
And yet is not washed from their filthiness.
There is a generation, O how lofty are their eyes !
And their eyelids are lifted up.
There is a generation whose teeth are as swords,
