Tableau Elearning offers autonomous learning modules and a demo for each subject. It is the main resource. We found, however, that most of them but not all the skills in the Exam Prep guide covered the desktop course I suggested: Basic. In reality, Desktop II was able to use the following skills: Metâ of the course â € "The data (included in a joint, mix or union.) Create a set, apply a background filter, use bins and histograms , and add a parameter. Now we have completed our intermediate level course â € "But, if you wish, everything you can do is take the modules. We advise you to take note of important principles, such as the distinction between discreet and continuous fields, as we look at the events. It was also useful to do analysis exercises. The e-learning price is USD 10/user per month. To access the activity files, you will also need a personal or technical desktop table license.
